Come Follow Me - Doctrine and Covenants September 13 - 19th

"After Much Tribulation... Cometh the Blessing" pg 157; D&C 102-105

To the members of [Zion's] camp, redeeming Zion meant restoring the Saints to their land. But just before the camp arrived in Jackson County, the Lord told Joseph Smith to stop and disband. Some members of the camp were confused and upset by this new instruction...

Others, however, saw it differently. While the exiled Saints never returned to Jackson County, the experience did bring a degree of "redemption" to Zion, and it did "come by power."

Faithful members of Zion's Camp, many of whom later became leaders of the Church, testified that the experience deepened their faith in God's power, in Joseph Smith's divine call, and in Zion — not just Zion the place but Zion the people of God. Rather than questioning the value of this seemingly unsuccessful task, they learned that the real task is to follow the Savior, even when we don't understand everything. This is how Zion, ultimately, will be redeemed.
