Butterfield Canyon 7th Ward

January 23rd 2022

....In moments of suffering and pain, [We] may have shouted Why me? Why again?The Psalmist asked, How long wilt thou forget me, O Lord? and the Prophet Joseph Smith asked, O God, where art thou? Even the Savior Himself, in the excruciating ordeal of the Atonement, wondered if He too had been forsaken.

But the divine answer to these faithful souls, to questions uttered in the darkness of despair, is always and ever the same: "Be still and know that I am God."

He has not left us; we are not cast off; His promises are sure; sanctified love is a constant: The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge.

So, when you are being hammered on the anvil of adversity, when your soul is being refined with severe lessons that perhaps cannot be learned in any other way, Don't jump ship... Please stay with the only help and strength that can aid you in that painful time....

Come Follow Me - Old Testament January 24 - 30th

"The Lord Called His People Zion" page 19 Moses 7

Throughout history, people have tried to achieve what Enoch and his people accomplished: building an ideal society where there is no poverty or violence.

As God's people, we share this desire. We call it building Zion, and it includes in addition to caring for the poor and promoting peace; making covenants, dwelling together in righteousness, and becoming one with each other and with Jesus Christ, the King of Zion.

Because the work of establishing Zion continues in our day, it's helpful to ask, How did Enoch and his people do it? How did they become of one heart and one mind, despite the wickedness around them? Among the many details Moses Ch7 gives us about Zion, a particularly valuable one for Latter-day Saints might be this: Zion is not just a city - it is a condition of the heart and spirit. Zion, as the Lord has taught, is the pure in heart. So perhaps the best way to build Zion is to start in our own hearts and homes.
